many exciting incidents occur, in the many exciting incidents occur, impanied by some exceptionally or acting. The vaudeville part of programme should also please the rem, as well as their parents, as it rim full of comedy and intricate ity juggling, rope throwing, etc. donday Gertrude Cronin & Co. will set a laughtable farce comedy the entitled His Roommate. The ch is well staged and is worked incest by three clever performers, should certainly be a strong feat-Others on Monday's bill are Billy the tramp monologuist; Delmore neids, movelty perch artists, and ine Barry, a dainty character Menne. The phiotoplays will be a usual high order.

"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

By contrast with the tear-compelling thosphere of "The Two Orphans," its week, Poil's theater will be a liverplace next week, when the stock empany appears in "Charley's Aunt," comedy that harvests nothing but mighter. It has been a long time ince the Poil Players have offered a cod comedy, and in the interval that as alsped the regular patrons have add to be satisfied with such lighter remes as were introduced between the stock of the satisfied with such lighter remes as were introduced between the standard by which to measure the value of all the new comedies, and it is doubtful if its equal has yet been found. It it has the fact has not as yet been generally recognized, as the advertising matter for several of the greens season's successful comedies will testify. The qualification—"Best temps y since Charley's Aunt," it self, and not only to be accepted but to be "as good as Charley's Aunt," it self, and not only to be accepted but to be "as good as Charley's Aunt," it self, and not only to be accepted but to be "as good as Charley's Aunt," it self, and not only to be accepted but to be "as good as Charley's Aunt," it self, and not only to be accepted but to be "as good as Charley's Aunt," it self, and not only to be accepted but to be "as good as Charley's Aunt," it self, and not only to be accepted but to be "as good as Charley's Aunt," it self, and not only to be accepted but to be appreciated and commended.

The schools which carry out the spirit of the day and the enterprising mercantile establishment which so patriotically and unselfishly make it possible for every school child to do their share in encouraging tree culture are doing a work the importance of which cannot be overestimated.

BREED THEATER.

The tree has been described by extent season as lighter than pine, stronger than oak, totigher than pine, the tree for a stronger than oak, totigher than pine, the tree for a stronger than

BREED THEATER.

The Buccaneers is the title of a sensational and weirdly thrilling filmstory now being featured at the Breed theater, and as every scene occurs on beard of an old actual pirate vessel, the result is, as might be expected, an unusually novel and strong spectacle of the high seas. There is mutiny of the crew, and the captain and his wife are pade prisoners, being bound in irons in the hold. A passing man-ofwar, seeing the black flag, signals a request of surrender. A few moments later shells are bursting around them;
a treacherous shell rends the reaking tub, and from the floating masts the captain and wife are brought safe abourd the man-of-war.

The Two Reformations, the powerful western picture, is attracting large numbers by its genuine atmosphere of the west, and the truly beautiful scenery and splendid acting. The Biograph is a very fine dramatic offering, and features the clever little leading least of that country. Miss Brown and Take Me Back to Baby Days, and Nothing Has Changed But You, seeding a hit with each.

EACH SCHOOL PUPIL WILL HAVE A TREE.

The Portsons & Mitchell Company of This City Proposes to Make a Free Distribution of Trees on Arbor Day.

Governor Baldwin has issued his preclamation for Arbor and Bird day on April 11.

The preclamation follows:

A Proclamation.

A Proclamation.

STATE OF CONNECTICUT.

By His Excellency.

Simeon E. Baldwin, Governor.

The return of spring to gladden and adorn the earth reminds us that we can become fellow workers with God in alding the force of nature to bring beauty and freshness into human life. I therefore, pursuant to the statutes of this state, hereby designate Tuesday, the 11th day of April nevt, as Arbor and Bird day.

Read Proclamation in Schools.

And I recommend that all, who can, use the opportunity to plant trees suitable for shade and ornament around that homes or in the public roads; and that in our schools the teachers on that day read aloud this proclamation; and impress upon the minds of those subject to their care the loveliness of groves and shaded avenues; the solicies that day read aloud this proclamation; and impress upon the minds of those subject to their care the loveliness of groves and shaded avenues; the solicitude with which our laws seek to grave the perpetuation of the song said; and the many ways in which can do an important part in perventing injuries to birds or trees, and so giving their state a great charm said making it more dear to all the people.

Service,

Given under my hand and the seal of the state, at the capitol in Hartford, this 21st day of March, in the SEAL, year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eleven, and the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-fifth.

SIMEON E. BALDWIN.

By His Excellency's Command:

MATTHEW H. ROGERS,

Secretary.

Secretary.

To further the Arbor day movement of further the Arbor day movement of further with the strainty, and to aid the "city beautiful" idea by inculcating a children love of trees and interest of their culture, the Porteous & Mitch-leaf number of catalpa trees to supply every pupil in the schools of Nor-rich and all the nearby towns with a ree for planting on Arbor day, Tuesday, April 11th.

R is not necessary to remind the child what from mean to a city, and not the same planting will accommon to effort the reverse made by the Especially is Arbor day to be commended, because it is largety a day of stucation for the young. The child who has grown up in the shade around his home early learns to appreciate the beauty and majesty of the great trunks and apreading branches. But the average city child too often requires surgestion and prompting to make him understand fully the value of the tree as an element of beauty and convenience. Therefore it is that the schools, as imparters of knowledge, have been particularly selected as a medium for encouraging the great work for which Arbor day was created.

The Porteous & Mitchell company proposes to get into communication with school boards and the teachers in the various schools in this vicinity and ascertain the number of trees that will be required to supply all the pupils in each school with a tree. Siegeral of the school boards and superintendents of the local school districts have already been consulted about this plan and are enthusiastically in favor of it. The catalpa tree, botanically known as catalpa speciosa, according to eminent foresters, is a tree that will play a great part in the reforestation of the United States.

It is a tree that matures within four years. Groves of the tree grown in indiana have reached an almost uniform height of 25 feet, crowned with a shade-giving umbel, and bearing beautiful flowers for ornament and even bee pasture.

The United States forestry department has recognized the value of the catalpa tree and has recommended its use for everything other woods are used for pending the reforestation of pine and other wood-bearing lands.

The catalpa possesses a unique antiseptic value. No tree germ can live on it. Its leaves produce follicles laden with antiseptic fluids, the effect of which is apparent even to the ground along the tree trunks. It will grow in all soils and demands no professional manipulation.

The catalpa as a wood is also used by Grand Rapids furniture houses for veneers and is declared to be superior to any others. The wood is also used by Production of gold in the United States in 1910 fell below that of the record output in 1909. The decrease was due to reduced production in Alaska, Colorado and South Dakota. In other states the output showed an increase.

If the country has the same average potentiality for producing food as land similarly situated in North America of Europe, it would seem that Argentina can support 100,000,000 people easily, as only small parts of it lie outside the temperate zone.

It has been estimated that 35,000,000 acres are the limit which may be used economically to cultivate cotton in the southern states. In less than ten years, at the present rate of natural increase in the demand, the requirements of the mills may be 28,000,000 to 30,000,000 bales per annum.

The Netherlands India government has thrown the west coast of Acheen open to planting enterprise, but only Dutch subjects need apply for concessions. The managers of the concessions must be Hollanders. Foreigners who may be employed under them must sign declarations that they will not claim for compensation from the government in case of troubles with the people of the land.

There are already docks in South Brooklyn capable of accommodating a 1,000-foot ship, and docks 1,000 feet long are soon to be built by the Mersey dock and harbor board, and at the safe time the management of one of the leading a transatlantic lines announces that it will begin the construction of at least one steamer which will be longer than any other vessel, although not of greater tonnage.

As early as 1786 the exportation of tobacco from Behia to Portugal amounted to over 18,000,000 pounds annually. The exports from that celony, later a province, increased regularly under the close of the momarchal period in Brazillan history. At the time of the formation of the republic the advantage of regularly organized labor was lest to tobacco producers and the annual production has on the average, remained about stationary since that time
